WHEELS OF LOVE ON A 'FRISCO TRAIN.

They Bear Away From an Irate Father a Loving Couple.

A ROMANTIC ELOPEMENT.

W. M. Smith, Senate Stenographer, and Miss Carrie Swain Are Married Despite All Obstacles.

The Frisco train for Carthage, Mo., is ng away to the southward, bearing along with it an eloping couple who, tightly bound in wedlock, may now hurl defiance at all the dreadful people—parents included —who try to roughen the running of true

Up to 7:30 o'clock Tuesday morning the tive names of this couple were Will-Smith and Miss Carrie Swain. Now, through the intervention of the law, imated by a Justice of the Peace, the cognomen of Smith does for both m. Smith it is, and Smith it ever, unless the divorce court tears them

No one ever heard of an elopement withthe there being a reason for it. Sometimes a reason is not very plain, but it exists it the same. In this instance the reason, is the very lain, but it exists it the same. In this instance the reason, is the very sand very substantial one of the parents' lection to the groom's personality. William M. Smith is at present the official mographer of the House of the Missouri gislature. Billy, as he is familiarly own, used to be a newspaper man, but the urements of politics charmed him away, has been marries once before and his mer wife secured of divorce from him not very long ago on the ground of non-poort. Perhaps this was a justifying use, for Billy's hesitancy in urging his allability as a husband on Fr. Swain. The eloping bride is the daughter of Thos. Swain, a salesman for the Samuel C. Swain, a salesman for the Samuel C. vits Dry Goods Co. She has lived with her rents at 2943 Diskson street. How she is to meet her new husband is not known, take the met him, and she loved. The black do black mustached, handsome young ittician had the same sort of sentiment his bosom for her. So nothing would do that they should get married.

Hence he determined to spike he wooser's guns.

He forbade the lover to come to his house in his trying. They were determined to est married and all the irate daddies on arth could not keep them apart. This is he way they worked it:

The discreet Romsø kept very carefully way from the immediate vicinity of 2943 lickson street. Apparently all communication between the couple ceased. He took room at Cooke's European Hotel, Eigheenth and Market streets, about two weeks go and made this his base of operations. Almost every day Proprietor Cook noticed is lodger came sauntering into the hotel with bundles of all sorts, shapes and sizes. Nooke could not make out at first what in he world Smith was going to do. One day he happened into his room and concluded hat his guest must be going to open a milinery shop there were so many articles of eminine wearing apparel about.

Everything was explained Monday night by Smith himself, when he informed his host that in the morning he expected to get married. Cooke grinned and Smith grinned back. Then the latter clucidated somewhat in the mystery of the bundles.

Since they could not get married with a father's blessing, he said, he and his sweetheart had determined to get married without it and take chances on forgiveness later on. So, with this end in view, the young woman every day had carried from her home, ostensibly to the laundry, to the dressmaker's and other available places, the wearing apparel necessary for an elopement trousseau. She deposited them at a neighboring drug store, where her lover would call and take them to his hotel.

This sort of thing went on until Monday, where her lover would call and take them to his hotel.

This sort of thing went on until Monday, when all the preparations were complete. The license was obtained Monday afternoon. Recorder Lewis kindly consented to keep it out of the papers, perhaps out of deference to the fact that "Billy" had once run for this office himself. Justice of the Peace William J. MISS SWAIN'S FATHER.

Then Mr. Thomas B. Swain, the young yes father, was advised of the hasty marge, he passed his hand across his face in tvague, aimless way that characterizes whose sensibilities have received a at shock, and then he uttered an impreson against his son-in-law.

It is a great pity," he said, "and the will almost kill hermother. I am inmed that Smith is without principle, and chief objection to him at first was that was said to be a maried man. This morning she took breakfast with my wife and myself at 7 o'clock, and when the meal was over she stated that she was going out to Webster Groves to-day to visit Miss Stein, a very intimate friend of hers. I was informed by a young man who visits my house that Smith was a married man, but aside from this I understand him to be a man who could not be depended on. I don't see why my daughter should have been so infatuated with him, as she was a bright, talented girl, and had many other admirers. She had no lack of attention."

"Will you take legal action against Smith?"

"Will you take legal action against Smith?"

"No: I presume there is nothing that I can do, as she is of age. But this blow will almost kill her mother."

ONE OTHER WOMAN.

On the recent junket of the Missouri Legislature from Jefferson City to Sedalia, Smith was accompanied by a pretty young lady whom he introduced to a numbr of mmbers as his wife, and she was with him at Jefferson City for a day or two after the trip. At that time there were several members who had known him in former years who had seen his first wife with him at the State capital, and who expressed surprise upon learning what Smith told them, that he had secured a divorce from his first wife. Later it was learned that his wife was plaintiff and he defendant in that suit.

charles H. Mansur was born in Philadelphia, Pa., March 6, 1835, and when 2 years old came with his parents to St. Louis. Ten years later the family removed to Ray County. In St. Louis and Ray County young Mansur attended the public schools, completing his education at Lawrence Academy, Groton, Mass. In 1834 he was made a Deputy Sheriff of Ray County, and two years later was admitted to the bar. He then moved to Chillicothe, where he made his home ever after, except when in Washington. In 1872 he made the race for Congress in the Tenth District as the nominee of the Democrats and liberal Republicans. He was elected Prysecuting Attorney in 1874 and 1876, and was again the Democratic nominee for Congress in the Fiftis-first and Fifty-second Congresses from the Second District, was a member of the Democratic National Convention of 1884 and was a delegate to nearly every Congressional convention in his district and every State convention since the war. He was appointed by President Cleveland to be Second Comptroller of the Treasury, and then under the Dockery treasury reorganization to be Assistant Comptroller, which office he occupied at the time of his death.

not likely to be known for some days. The night before the shock snow fell throughout Carniola. All the reports received describe the movements of the earth as having been undulating. The duration of the shock was from five to twenty-five seconds. In many places along the lines of the Southern Raliway, rocks were rolled upon the rails, obstructing traffic.

A dispatch to the Daily News from Vienna says that in the South the earthquakes were felt as far as Vernona, Arco and Moran. In the North they reached Vienna and East Agram, Flume and Abbasia. In Laibach not a single house escaped without damage. The theater, museum and churches suffered severely. St. Mary's Church is in ruins. Many persons were injured by falling chimneys. The damaged houses threaten to collapse, and the greater part of the population have taken refuge in the neighboring forests. The Palace at 8oda was damaged, and must be pulled down. The people are in despair, fearing the shocks will be repeated. A similar panie exists in Fiume. In this city the shocks were felt severely. In one theater the orchestra stopped playing, and immediately afterward the whole structure, walls, boxes, salleries and chandeliers, were seen swaying to and fro. The audience fled panio-sricken into the streets, thinking that every minute the building would fail. Many of the residents of Flume sought refuge aboard the ships in the harbor.

Similar reports of panic come from numerous towns and villages. In many places the towers of the churches swung so violently that the bells in them rang. In Trieste many persons were thrown out of their beds and bruised. Troops were ordered out to preserve order, especially in the prison, where a revolt of the prisoners was feared. The latest dispatches stated that the shocks were also felt at Serajevo in Bosnia.

Elixir of Life Has Perhaps Been Found.

NEW YORK, April 18.—Certain physicians of the German Dispensary at No. 323

West Forty-second street have experimented in fewer cases with a fluid, and, in their opinion, have achieved marvelous re-sults. Dr. William Jacobsohn of No. 152 East Eighty-sixth street, in a paper read before the Society for Medical Progress last Saturday, described the fluid as "Nuclien," one of the compounds present in anti-toxine, and the natural food of blood tissues. He and the natural food of blood tissues. He said it was due to Nuclein that anti-toxine sometimes cured, and to the poison in anti-toxine that the latter sometimes proved fatal. Exactly what Nuclein is and how it has operated he did not then care to state, but at the suggestion of Dr. J. Mount Blever, who has treated my patients with it, Dr. Jacobsohn has given the Post-Dispatch a full history of the fluid.

Dr. Chas. McClintook and Prof. Vaughan about a year ago, while experimenting in their laboratory at the University of Michigan, discovered a fluid in the make-up of blood chemically represented by twentynine parts of carbon, forty-nine parts of hydrogen, six parts of phosphorous and thirty-two parts of oxygen. This was Nuclein. In the inoculation of mice and guinea pigs by the toxines of various diseases, they found that Nuclein possessed wonderful restorative powers.

of age, physical condition and environment.

Nuclein was first tried on a girl four years of age, who had diphtheria. The fluid was hypodermically introduced in a very small quantity. The temperature slowly rose, followed by a sudden drop. The pulse soon became normal, and in three days the patient showed no sign of disease. This case was followed by similar ones. Nuclein was then employed as a fortifier against contagious diseases and as a tonic. Five months ago, when some physicians began to attack anti-toxine as a dangerous remedy. Drs. Bleyer and Jacobsohn received great encouragement in their efforts from Prof. Jos. E. Winters of the University of New York, who said, in an article in a medical journal, that after three months occupied with the careful study of cases treated with anti-toxine at the Williard Hospital, he was ready to oppose the anti-toxine treat-with anti-toxine at the Williard Hospital, he was ready to oppose the anti-toxine treatment of diphtheria.

Of the 200 cases of diphtheria, scarlet fever, measles and scarlatina treated in this city with Nuclein, only nine patients, it is said, have died. The fatalities are explained as follows: That the injection was made after the fever had a firm hold on the patient; that other complications had plained as follows: That the injection was made after the fever had a firm hold on the patient; that other complications had arisen to destroy the tissues; that the vatient did not have proper care or was deprived of the oxygen in the air through the crowded condition of his lodgings. "To treat fever," said Dr. Jacobsohn, "we must remove the cause—the toxines and especially as in contagions, the microbe and its poison. Nuclein is a substance to which the cell owes its resisting power, and if present in sufficient quantity the microbe and its toxine are prevented from attacking the cell, and are ultimately destroyed. Of course we don't care to be too sangulne; but see what the logical conclusion will be. Old age comes because the natural food has been exhausted. What this food is scientists have long sought to determine, for with that discovery is revealed the Elixir of Life. A large number of physicians, both here and at Philadelphia, speak in the highest terms of results from the new remedy. Nuclein has not yet been manufactured from pure chemical elements by combination in a laboratory. It is now made from yeast, fish cells, or through analysis from blood serum."

NEW YORK, April 16.—Thos. J. Tremaine, popularly known as "Toronto Red," is in Buffalo circulating diligently the story that it was he, not James Duffy, who jumped from Brooklyn Bridge last Saturday. He claims that he hired two canal boatmen, James Corrigan and his son, whose boat was on the Brooklyn side, to row out and pick him up, paying them 34.

No men of the name of Corrigan could be found on a canal boat at the docks, but it was found that a boat answering the description given by Tremaine of his alleged rescuers, had moved away since the reported leap from the bridge.

A committee will also probably be appointed to pass on applications for the use of the property placed at the committee's disposal, as it is desired to prevent any one from securing the benefits who is not in need, the object being to help those who are out of employment but willing to work.

Adam Boeck said yesterday: "People are talking to me every day on the subject, and I think it will be a success. I met Judge Terry on the street to-day and he said: 'You can command me for all the vacant property I have.' He is enthusiastic ner, who was one of the first to offer

In the meantime all contributions and of-fers of land will be received and acknowl-edged by the Post-Dispatch and reported to the meeting Thursday evening.

Possibilities of the Detroit Plan. To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

From entirely trustworthy sources in England I have just received some facts and figures which will perhaps help to illustrate what the Detroit plan may have in store for the deserving poor of this city. These figures relate to an agricultural district in Lancashire, distant about twenty miles from Liverpool and about thirty-six miles from Manchester, a district mainly devoted to the growing of cabbage and potatoes for the London market. Available 'and suitable farming land being very scarce and rent exorbitant, the tenant naturally devotes his holding to 'its most productive use. Each parcel of ground is made to produce to its utmost capacity. Indeed, the tenant makes it a rule to gather from each parcel of his land two crops each year, one of cabbage and one of potatoes.

That is readily accomplished, and in this way: Whenever the growing potato crop is ready to "put by,"—that is, when nothing further remains to be done to it until the time for digging arrives, the tenant utilizes the space between the potato rows by planning cabbage at a distance of about twenty-seven inches from each other, using for that purpose a peculiar variety called the "Savoy."

From a general average throughout the day when at work. Upon this investment the English tenant farmer realizes as follows:

300 bushels of potatoes at 40c a bushel...120.00 8,640 heads of cabbage at 1 cent each...... 86.40 These prices are for the produce in the immediate neighborhood where it is grown, and show a profit of $95.40 upon each acre.

Each acre cultivated is equivalent to six parcels each 50x145 feet, and each of these little parcels, even under the unfavorable conditions prevailing in the agricultural districts of Lancashire, gives an average profit of more than $16.

But under the greatly improved conditions which prevail here in St. Louis, where the tenant has no rent to pay, is put to no expense for seed or fertilizers, and performs the labor himself, it is easy to see that a plan like that in contemplation can, if wisely carried out, be made highly beneficial to the poor, whom "we have aiways with us." It may also be made beneficial to the landholder by putting the land into mere marketable condition. Indeed, one argument in favor of the proposed scheme is that it savors more of even-handed "justice" and less of ostentatious charity than is to be found in some other social reforms which could be named.

I submit these results for whatever they named. I submit these results for whatever they may be worth to the gentlemen who may be charged with the carrying out of the Detroit plan.

BOMBARDED ON ALL SIDES. The President Has Said Nothing New > and Offered No Remedy for Present Ills.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 16.—Has President Cleveland sounded the keynote of the coming Presidential campaign? An affirmative opinion is entertained by most public men in Washington.

Representatives of all parties and factions are united in the satisfaction they express are united in the satisfaction they express as to one peculiarity of the communication sent by the President to Chicago upon silver. They agree that the Administration has removed all doubts as to its position and has taken a firm stand. No doubt can any longer be entertained as to its position on the silver question. The general political opinion also is that there will be no international monetary conference. The Chicago letter is taken as evidence that the President does not think the monetary conference should be participated in by the United States until people, by their votes at home, have had an opportunity of passing upon the issue as to free silver.

The Administration will go into the campaign very strongly against free silver. Senator Carlisle, it is said, will begin next month, making speeches on financial questions in Tennessee, and later on in Kentucky. According to good authority, Mr. Cleveland is thoroughly aroused to the fact that the Democratic party needs an issue, and that he has determined to give it one by having the members of his Cabinet speak against free silver from now on as often and as forcibly as they can. The President is said to realize that a campaign on the financial question must be begun in order to check the free silver movement, which he is believed to be convinced will surely lead, if not checked, to the ruin of the Democratic party. The Chicago letter, therefore, is of great political significance. It is the throwing down of the gauntlet by the President. one peculiarity of the communication

President.

It is said that Secretary Gresham is not in accord with the President and other Cabinet members on the financial issue. In fact, it is whispered that the Secretary of State is "silver heretio," and has refused to take the stump in Illinois in the cause of the ONLY EMPTY WORDS.

What Silver Party Leaders Say of Cleveland's Production.

DENVER, Colo., April 16.—Gen. A. J. Warner, in an interview, stigmatizes President Cleveland's financial letter as a disnest representation of facts, which con tained an apprehension of defeat, and an tained an apprehension of defeat, and an acknowledgment of the great battle that was pending. "But there must be a new party," he added; "we must mass the millions of voters who want bimetallism. I think that party will be formed. If I did not, I would go home now and stay there."

Mr. Sibley said that from a hasty perusal of the letter he judged it was a string of glittering generalities, empty words, signifying nothing.

of the letter he judged it was a string of glittering generalities, empty words, signifying nothing.

Gen. James B. Weaver characterized the letter as stupid. He said: "It is evident that Mr. Cleveland and the gold wing of the Democratic party will ally themselves with the Republican party in the next campaign. In fact, there will be but two parties—the gold and bank party, represented by the Republican ticket, and the united reform movement or alliance, consisting of Populists, free silver Democrats and free silver Republicans."

GOV. STONE'S OPINION. Cleveland Radically Wrong on the Financial Question.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., April 16.-Gov. Stone's views in regard to President Cleve-Stone's ylews in regard to President Cleveland's letter on the silver question are very brief, and as follows: "I think the President's letter is merely a repetition without additional information of his position as a gold monometallist. There is nothing new in it. It is merely a statement of his position, which everybody has known for some months, and which I think is as radically wrong to-day, although often repeated, as it was when he first gave utterance to it."

You say: "Disguise it as we may, the late of battle is drawn between the forces of a safe currency and those of sliver monometallism." Your recent sale of $62,000,000 of bonds to the Rothschilds' syndicate for $500,000 less than their market value to obtain gold to maintain gold monometallism, is some evidence of your familiarity with "the forces of safe currency." But your assertion that the opposition forces are those of sliver monometallism shows that you do not understand the position of the bimetallists, or that you knowingly misrepresent their position.

of silver monometallism shows that you do not understand the position of the bimetallists, or that you knowingly misrepresent their position.

Assuming, as I must, that it is want of information on your part, without the least desire to deceive the people, you will pardon me for informing you for what the advocates of unrestricted coinage of both gold and silver contend. This contention is so clearly stated by your Secretary of the Treasury, Mr. Carlisle, in his speech in the House of Representatives on February 21, 1878, that his exact words have become the motto of the bimetallists. He contended for "unlimited coinage of both metals upon terms of exact equality."

This is the contention of the forces in favor of bimetallism and opposed to gold monometallism, and this is the full extent of the demands of the advocates of silver coinage. Why do you argue that a return to the coinage of both metals upon "terms of exact equality" was established by Jefferson and Hamilton and maintained by all patriotic statesmen of every party previous to the clandestine demonetization of silver in 1872 would debase the currency and destroy the credit of the Government? Have you ever compared the prosperity of the country under your administration? Did it ever occur to your hat Jefferson and Jackson might be right and that you might be wrong? Did you ever consider the possibility of the radical change that you, Mr. Sherman and your associates in co-operating with you, term the "forces of safe currency," have made?

You have destroyed one-half of the world's metallic money and enhanced the value of the other half fully 160 per cent. You have compelled the deator to surrency more than double the amount of property to liquidate his debt that the money he borrowed would have purchased at the time he incurred the obligation. You have compelled the debtor to surrency more than double the amount of property to liquidate his debt that the money he borrowed would have purchased at the time he incurred the obligation. You have compelled th oly-have nothing to present in favor of their cause except such vague generalities as you yourself employ, and that if you have no reason for maintaining the gold standard which will benefit your cause, then nobody else has? Under these circumstances if your gold combination is to be successful, you must find some way of satisfying the people that it is right for them to be poor and miserable, if thereby they can secure the smiles of the manipulators of an alien gold trust; and that if 6-cent cotton and 50-cent wheat are agreeable to the Rothschilds the people of the United States are sufficiently compensated for any sacrifice they may make.

PALMER'S OPPOSITION.

The Senator Calls the Action of the Committee Political Treachery. special to The Post-Dispatch.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., April 16.—Senato

John M. Palmer has so long regarded himself as the head and front of Illinois Democracy that he cannot recover from the shock which the State Committee has given him by calling a State Convention without his advice and consent. He is "talking for publication" whenever the opportunity is presented. To a number of newspaper representatives he said last night:

"In my extensive correspondence I find that some Democrats believe that the committee acted in good faith in calling the State Convention, and that their sole object was to serve the interests of the Democratic party. Others say they believe, and I share the opinion, that the calling of the State Convention by the committee was an act of deliberate treachery and disloyalty to the Democratic party and Democratic principles. If it had been stated in the call of the committee that its object was to consider the propriety of calling a State Convention of the Democratic party to define the position of the party on the question of the free colnage of silver upon the ratio of 16 to 1, it is probable that more than thirteen members of the committee would have been full on that point and made public through the papers many Democratis entertaining different views on that subject would have been there. All the circumstances of the meeting of a minority of the committee and the call for a convention a year before any effective political action is possible, demonstrated beyond contradiction that the call for a convention was dictated by no consideration of duty to the Democratic party of Illinois, but that its object was and is to transfer the Democratic organization and name to a party devoted to a single object—the free coinage of silver on a ratio of 16 of silver to 1-of gold—and to separate the Democrats of Illinois from the National Administration and the Democracy of the other States." nocracy that he cannot recover from the

SERVING HIS MASTERS.

Gov. Altgeld Scores Cleveland for Writing His "Sound Money" Letter.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., April 16.—Gov. Altgeld has given out a statement of his opinion of President Cleveland's letter. He said no one would pay any attention to the letter but for the President's name. If Gov. Altgeld had signed it, he would be ridiculed, for the weakness of the letter excites pity.

cities pity.

"This is the first instance in history," said the Governor, "in which a President of the United States, after using all the powers of the Government, has in addition condescended to write for the newsof the United States, after using all the powers of the Government, has in addition condescended to write for the newspapers in order to serve his masters. For this letter was not only written for publication but was intended to start a boom, and has been advertised for a week in order to give it are audience. Other Presidents have been used as a convenience by class interests, but this is the first time in which a President's name has been dragged $800 miles outside of Washington City for that purpose. After nominating Cleveland three times and electing him twice to the presidency, the Standard Oil and Wall street people got him to use all the powers of the Government to further their schemes. The country has been astounded to see post-offices and patrpage used to coerce Congress into doing the biddings of the East, from striking down sliver to the packing of a Supreme Court.

"Labor is idle, and the great producing classes are in distress, and they are finding out the cause. They have learned that the so-called honest dollar' is the most dishonest dollar ever in demand, for it compels the debtor to give twice as much property to pay his debts as would have been necessary at the time the debt was contracted. Now, does the President's letter offer a remedy for these people? None. They have been bled until they cannot stand up, and he simply tells them to becoment. They know that until they get

THE PRESIDENT'S MISTAKES. Some of the Errors in Mr. Cleveland's Letter Pointed Out.

CHICAGO, April 16.—The Bimetallic League, through its president, W. H. Harvey. has sent a reply to Cleveland's letter, in which the following passages occur:

"Your letter does not present the true merits of this controversy. You call the attention of farmers and wage earners to the fact that raising prices, while enabling them to sell their products and labor at a higher price, will also cause them to pay equally more for what they may purchase, but you neglect to say that your statement is not applicable to debts. With prices coming down regularly and steadily since the demonetization of silver our merchants, manufacturers and the people generally have been doing business on a falling market, so that the time intervening between the purchase of their merchandise or raw material and placing it, months after, on the market has removed the margin they would have otherwise made. This shrinkage in values added to the ordinary risk and expense of business has led to an ever increasing volume of debt—to a money-lending period, until it has increased, all told, public and private, to about 340,000,000,000, or about two-thirds of the total value of all property in the United States.

"Money and those debts payable in money have been steadily increasing in exchange-able value with the property of the people." n which the following passages occur:

"We have constantly pointed out to the people the ever-increasing, interchangeable value of the creditors' dollar, and to the reason why it was increasing, but the influence of these creditors has dominated your administration, and you insist on such a currency as they have established as a sound currency. It means the confiscation of property of the people by the sale of property under mortgages, judgments and executions. It seems that fixed incomes will wipe out interest of stockholders in our railways and corporations. If it is an injustice to restore prices so people can change their property for a sufficient number of dollars to pay their debts and bring happiness and prosperity to our land again, it was a greater injustice to destroy the value of property and enhance the value of money by demonetization of silver and the establishment of a single gold standard."

of money by demonetization of silver and the establishment of a single gold standard."

"When you call the attention of the farmer and wage-earner to the fact that rising prices will make him pay more for what he buys, you should at the same time-call his attention to the fact that it would enable him to pay his debts, free him from bondage in which he has been unjustly placed, and again make him the owner of a home and a free and independent citizen. We might say further to him that rising prices cause money to seek investment, and would thus open up the channels of commerce and trade and give employement to millions now idle. It is not more money that we want to borrow, but to pay off what de already owe. The more we borrow the more we must pay, and the annual interest on all our public and private debts is now more than the annual profits of the business and production. Where will it end?"

This came from such a source that it was accepted as authoritative. It is said that every other member of the Cabinet is standing right up to the President on the silver issue. Secretary Morton, who shares with Secretary Gresham the representation of the West in the Cabinet, is particularly aggressive toward the 16 to 1 heresy. The others will make speeches or write letters, but of Scretary Gresham, it is said, nothing is expected.

SIX WILL HANG.

Gov. Stone Not Likely to Interfere With Saturday's Executions.

With Sturrasy's Executions.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., April 16.—In this State there are six men under sentence of death for murder and one for rape, all to hang Saturday, the 20th, unless Gov. Stone interferes. Attorney Chas. Noland was here to-day to see the Governor in behalf of Taylor, and a gentleman and two ladies to see him for Henze and Kalser, but the Governor fiatly refused to hear arguments. He told them that they could submit papers and he would consider them, but that he did not care to hear any oral arguments.

Saturday is likely to be a grewsome day in Missouri, as it is thought that Gov. Stone will refuse to interfere in behalf of any one of the seven condemned men.

MIDDLESBORO, Ky., April 16.-William Headrick, wanted in Ohio, North Carolina, Tennessee and Kentucky for bigamy, was arrested on a charge of horse-stealing yes-terday. Seven deserted alleged wives are on his track. Headrick's alleged method was to travel about the country, and when he found a woman with money he would marry her, it is said. Then as soon as he could get her money, it is claimed, he would desert her.

Gen. A. R. Taylor, Brigadier General of the Tennessee National Guard, will issue an order, it is said, forbidding any Tennessee troops from participating in any drill in St. Louis, if this city persists in having an interstate drill here this summer. This is because Memphis also wants to have a drill. Lieut.-Col. J. H. Cavendar of the First Regiment of this State says that as Gen. Taylor can only keep his troop away the St. Louis drill would not be injured to any extent.

the petition for a renearing of the income tax suits within a few days.

Dissatisfaction with the decision of the court seems to be general and it is believed that the administration will do all in its power to secure a rehearing of the case. The Government, however, will not consent The Government, however, will not consent to a reargument of any particular question involved, but will insist that if a rehearing is granted the whole case be reargued. The only point decided by the court which meets with the approval of the Government is that exempting from tax incomes from State and municipal bonds. The rent exemption is being rigorously attacked, and the contention is made that if the late decision stands, persons who paid the $150,000,000 or more collected during the war on incomes from rents have at least an equitable claim against the Government for restitution. The netition have at least an equitable claim against the Government for restitution. The petition for rehearing sets forth that while the court has decided two points of the law, as to rents and municipal bonds, yet no judgment has been announced authoritatively establishing any principle for interpreting the act on the following points:

1. Whether the void provisions invalidate the whole act.

Whether the volu provision

 Whether as to the income from personal property as such, the act is unconstitutional as laying direct taxes.
 Whether any part of the tax, if not considered as a direct tax, is invalid for want of uniformity.

Authentic Statement of the Slate Presented This Afternoon.

FILLEY RULES THE ROOST

But the Old Man Was Too Wily to Get Himself Disliked by Taking the Street Commissionership.

This is the authoritative statement of Mayor Walbridge's slate, which will be submitted to the Municipal Assembly at its organization this aftern City Counselor-Judge Daniel D. Fisher.

Water Commissioner—Mark Holman, Supply Commissioner—Mark Holman, Street Commissioner—Robert Moore, Harbor and Wharf Commissioner—Chas.

Assessor and Collector of Water Rates—Louis Grund.

It is a Filley slate and Mr. Pohlman is left out in the cold, though he wanted very badly to be Park Commissioner. Jim Richardson, the new Supply Commissioner, is a brother of Cliff Richardson of the Chemical Bank. Robert Moore held office under the Overstolz regime, and is a competent engineer. All the others are well known politically. The Sewer Commissionership is still an open question, but will go to Chief Engineer B. H. Crosby of the Burlington system, or B. H. Crosby of the Burlington system, or B. H. Corby, of the Water Department.
Old man Filley was talked of for Street Commissioner, but the willy politician, while not averse to office holding, suspected that his earnest enemy was boor, up him for an office where he would get he public and the army of disappointed office-seekers after him.

The minor offices are still in abeyance, and will be shifted about to harmonize interests that have been jarred by present appointments. essor and Collector of Water Rates

Colorado and Kansas, it is believed considerable damage was done, but it is impossible to learn anything from those sections because of the fact that all telegraphic communication has been cut off since 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. For a short time last evening Denver was reached on a very shaky wire, but after thirty minutes the wire failed, and since that time no word has been received or sent into Denver over telegraph wires. The storm covered a wide area northward, the Denver wire via Omaha also being down.

Reports from Oklahoma state that a destructive wind and sand storm passed over Southern Kansas and Oklahoma last evening, doing much damage to crops. A peculiar feature of the storm was the intense darkness and the extraordinary electrical display. The atmosphere was surcharged with electricity, and several persons and horses were stunned and shocked by electric shocks. In the western part of Oklahoma and the Pan-handle, Egyptian darkness prevailed. Such a peculiar storm has seidom been seen, and the superstitious thought the astronomical conditions, which, it has been claimed by a South Carolina minister, are now repeating themselves for the first time since the death of Christ, had something to do with it. The rain that fell in Western Oklahoma was actually a shower of mud. At 10 o'clock a. m. a slow wire had been secured to Denver, but it is not sure that it will hold good any length of time.

At a very elaborate dinner which she gave recently at her hotel, two footmen in a livery different from that worn by the crowd of lackeys serving the guests were an object of much comment. The men stood on either side of the hostess, making themselves conspicuous, not merely by the livery they wore, but by their inmovable pose, as neither turned to the right nor to the left. When interviewed on the subject the majordomo said the men wore Mrs. Palmer's livery, and the great lady always traveled with two auits of it, into which the indiord was expected to put two of his domestics, especially detailed to her service.

MAJESTIC GAS RANGE.

The pressing demand for something better for cooking than the ordinary gas stove induced us to perfect the Majestic Gas Range, which is complete in all its parts. It is proven that it costs no more for gas than for coal with a Majestic Coal Range, and this sum is so little that it scarcely enters into the aggregate of household expenses. It possesses every essential to economical housekeeping, as its constructive features are such as to insure a small consumption of gas, uniformity in baking, perfection in roasting and brothing, and ease in management; its parts in steel and malleable iron are so combined as to give strength where needed, weight where exposed. The steel is cold rolled and riveted to frames of mall eable iron. The connecting pipes, valves and burners are so made as to economize and preclude the possibility of escaping gas. In short, it is built to supply the demand as above stated, and is as certain to win its way as rapidly into the homes and confidence of the people as did the GRAND MAJESTIC COAL RANGE, now so popular throughout America.

James Elverson, Jr., General Manager of the Philadelphia Enquirer, by the Rev. Dr. Arthur Brooks at the Church of the Incarnation. Col. Elverson was attended by his best man, Mr. Lemuel Coffin Altemus of Philadelphia. The ushers were Mr. C. Emery Michael, Manager of the Philadelphia North American; Mr. Fred E. Whiting, Publisher Boston Herald; Edward W. Osborne, Publisher of the Cleveland Press, and Mr. J. Ambrose Butler, Publisher of the Buffalo Evening News. There were no bridomaids, but Miss Mayo was attended by her sister, Miss Deronda Mayo, as maid of honor. The ceremony was after the usual Episcopalian ritual. Miss Mayo were an ivory-white satingown en traine, elaborately trimmed with point lace, high neck and long sleeves. The bodice was full in front, trimmed with strings of pearls.

After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the Waldorf for the bridai party. After a short tour the young couple will settle down to housekeeping at the residence the groom has fitted up on South Twenty-first street, Philadelphia.

Miss Mayo is a great social favorite in both New York and Philadelphia. Col. Elverson is one of the youngest newspaper managers in the country. He is in the business control of the Philadelphia Enquirer, which is owned by his father, who is a millionaire. The groom is a member of the staff of Gov. Hastings.

O'Brien—Ballenger.

A fashionable gathering will be present this evening at the Church of the Holy Communion to witness the nuptials of Miss Grace Douglass Ballenger to Mr. Frank E. O'Brien of Washington, D. C., which takes place at 6 o'clock.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. Isaac S. Ballenger of 8923 Delmar avenue, for many years connected with the Third National Bank of this city, the bridegroom a well-known real estate merchant of the capital.

The bride will be attended by Miss Elizabeth Gould and there will be three ushers—Meesrs. Wallace Butler, Connor Witherspoon and Dr. Lewis.

The bride will wear a gown of heavy white duchesses satin, made very simply, the skirt extending into the folds of a long court train. The bodice is cut high, with a pointed girdle about the waist, and ruffles of chiffon about the neck and shoulders, the immense balloon sleeves finished at the elbow with a frill of chiffon and met by the long white gloves.

The long tulle veil will be confined to her dark hair with a spray of orange blossoms, and she will carry in her hand a white ivory-bound prayer book.

Miss Gould, as bridemaid, will be gowned in white Paris muslin, over a petiticat of white satin, the bodice made high, with a crushed satin collar, fastened with rosettes, a girdle of white satin ribbon about the waist, the loops falling to the hem of her o'clock.

"You must do something for me, Mr. Johnson," she exclaimed, as big tears welled up in her eyes. "I haven't had anything to eat yet this morning, and myself and my baby had to sleep in a cold, empty room last night."

Then she launched into a bitter denunciation of the attorney, who she claims deceived her, saying: "Anybody who would take $5 in such a way, take the last crust of bread from this poor baby's mouth, is worse than a murderer."

Her story touched Mr. Johnson, and he not only promised to see Judge Murphy and have her case redocketed, but he gave her money to buy food for herself and her infant.

James Lenaghan Buffeted and His Jug of Wine Broke.

James Lenaghan of 4322 North Broadway came down town early Tuesday morning to have a two-gallon jug filled with angelica wine. He has been sick and thought he would take "a little wine for the stomach's sake." He never reached home with it, for at Broadway and Chestnut street Lenaghan came as near death as any man ever came without shaking hands with it.

A north-bound train was signaled by Lenaghan, after he had secured his wine. It came to a full stop and the man started to board the grip car. He had one foot on the running board, when the car was started with a jerk. Lenaghan was on the west side of the car, and jug of wine in his right hand destroyed his equilibrium. Lenaghan was thrown off between the tracks. Just as his grasp was relaxing a south-bound train struck him. He was knocked from one train to the other like a rubber ball for their entire length. Neither was stopped, nor speed slackend. That Lenaghan was not killed is a marvel. A hair's breadth further in his buffetings would have put him under the wheels. "BOUND MONEY."

In his address to the people of the United States by way of a Chicago Reception Committee, President Cleveland urges the necessity of sound money.

But of what does the quality of soundness in money consist? The quality of paramount importance is invariability of value. This quality is necessary to make it a good medium of exchange because business is subject to disturbance when the value of the money standard fluctuates. It is essential to its functions as a measure of value and a stand ard of deferred payments, because the measure of all debts is affected by the money value and rises or falls inversely as it rises or falls. With the rise of the money standard the prices of all commodities fall, pro-ducers and manufacturers and merchants are caught on a falling market and must dispose of their commodities at

The value of debts is increased. The result is that business stagnates, enterfailures multiply and the stoppage of industry throws men out of employment. With a falling money standard, while the value of evidences of debt decreases, enterprise flourishes and business booms. There are evils on both sides, but F. A. Walker and other eminent economists emphatically declare that cheaper money is preferable to the dearer because it hurts only the rich few and benefits the producing, mercantile and debtor classes-the mass of the com-

But the people of the United States have suffered for twenty years from a constantly appreciating money, the worst form of variable money value. The prices of all commodities have been cut in half and all debts in the form of bonds, mortgages and long-term notes have been doubled. They have had periodic panics and have just passed through a period of severe depression in which all productive and business energy flagged and thousands of workingmen were thrown out of employment. The farmer are crushed and armies of the unemployed fill the cities.

The President's address on the necessity of sound money and the dangers of unsound money is most timely. That he teamilies his conclusions and does not see that he is condemning the gold mono talliam he advocates is due to ignorance and the blind prejudice which the tic influence of the money power induces in its servants.

THE CRUEL WAR IS OVER.

A private cable dispatch from ex-Sec retary of State Foster, who has been assisting the Chinese plenipotentiaries con firms last night's press dispatches to the fect that the negotiations have been suc pessful and that the treaty of peace be en China and Japan has been signed. This is good news, not only because a continuance of the war would have reulted in still more disastrous losses to China without any corresponding gain China without any corresponding gain to Japan, but because it puts an end to European apprehensions regarding the possible intervention by some one of the Great Powers. Japan has won her point in the diplomatic as well as in the military field, and has enforced her own terms without asking permision from any other section.

considering the relative condition of abatants, the terms of peace demanded and secured by Japan are not onerous. The independence of Corea was a foregone conclusion after the victories at Ping Yang and at the mouth of the Yalu River. The indemnity of $100,000,000 to about one-half of what was expected, and is certainly not sufficient to reimburee Japan for the cost of the war. It is probable that the retention of the places she has already conquered and of the ter-ritory east of the Liao River is simply a guarantee of the payment of the indem-nity. If this be so, the cession of the Island of Formosa and an offensive and defensive alliance with China comprise the permanent gains of Japan from the war.

These gains are very great, but not more than Japan was entitled to. Possessing the Island of Formosa so near the mainland as a basis of operations, and with her predominant naval power, an offensive and defensive alliance between the two empires will mean for a long time of China will be at the service of Japan for any undertaking the Island Empire may be willing to commit itself to. It means a permanent addition to the recognized Great Powers of the world.

The success of the negotiations reflects great credit on American diplomacy. The American Ministers at Pekin and Tokio laid the basis of them and brought the envoys together. There is little doubt that Mr. Foster was a powerful influence for peace on honorable terms.

Post-Dispatch for last week reached 540,192, a daily average of 77,170 and an unparalleled record in St. Louis journalism. There was a steady growth from day to day. But the circulation of the Post-Dispatch excels as much in character as in number. It goes to the homes of the people. It reaches more St. Louis homes than both of the morning papers combined.

THE POLITICS IN IT. It is important to remember fust now that the general managers or controlling officers of the leading railroads in Missouri are Republicans. Brown of the Bur-lington, Nettleton, Hays, Warner, Morrill and the rest are active Republicans. and while they have Democrats under them—such as Clardy, Phelps, Spencer, Lehmann and others—the Democrats are subordinate and hold in large measure subject to the pleasure of the general managers. These subordinates are apt to think that any public policy that is supposed in any measure to militate against corporate interests is bad. It is safe to say, however, that the money influence and the power of organization is in favor of the Republican and against the Democratic party; and now these people and influences propose to so manipulate affairs at Jefferson City as to drive the workingmen along with the railroad managers to the support of the Republican party. Phelps, Carroll and their fellows seem not to care for Democracy so long as the railroads get what they want.

The Legislature has left the Missouri Democracy at a great disadvantage. It would be easy for Shirk and men of his type to say to railroad employes that the Republicans passed a fellow-servant bill, but the Democratic Senate killed it, and unfortunately that would be the truth as far as it went. The railroad managers are already opposed to Democracy, and Democratic Senators should not be disposed to help the Republican magnates carry their workingmen with them.

MONOPOLY'S MUNICIPAL ALLIES.

The complete exposure of the illegal combine which controls the bridge and terminal facilities of St. Louis emphasizes the betrayal of the people of the city embodied in the recent grant of a franchise to the Merchants' Bridge and Terminal Co. for the completion of its prolected belt line.

Although all the facts about the monster monopoly were not known when the Municipal Assembly granted this franchise and the Mayor approved the grant, yet it was known that some sort of a omnact existed between the bridge and ferry interests to maintain rates and squeeze the commerce of St. Louis, and that the corporation seeking the franchise had cheated and betrayed the city by becoming an ally of the monopoly trary and oppressive charges.

But despite this knowledge, despite the protests of the people and the repeated warnings of the Post-Dispatch the Municipal Assembly and the Mayor made ree gift to the monopoly of a franchis which riveted its fetters on the city. They gave it the privilege of belting the city with steel bands. It was as if the defenders of a city had bestowed upon the enemy who possessed its gates permission to build a stockade around it.

It is small wonder that citizens become discouraged and supinely yield to wrong and loot when monopoly finds willing al-lies in the very citadel.

THE LAW VIOLATED BY VOGT.

In view of the gravity of the offense of stitution. Deputy Sheriff Vogt which the Sunday Post-Dispatch exposed and proved the apparent indifference of Sheriff Troll and Judge Filteraft is difficult to understand. Vogt is guilty of violating Section 3717, Article 7, of the Revised Statutes of Mis-

Article 7, of the Revised Statutes of mis-sourl, which is as follows:

Deputy Sheriff Vogt is proved to have received a part of the pay of two citizens for relieving them from jury service. His offense is a felony. It is grave in any officer, and especially grave in an officer of a court where bribery or any other violation of law cannot be tolerated for a recoment.

The death of Hon. Charles H. Mansur emoves a Democrat who has been prominent in Missouri politics for many years. He has been in public life for over thirty years, and was a Democrat when memership in that party required sacrifices His first appearance in national politics was as a delegate to the National Democratic Convention in 1868. He was also a delegate to the convention of 1884. He first ran for Congress in the Tenth Dis-trict as the nominee of the Democrats and Liberal Republicans in 1872. He rep-resented that district in the 50th, 51st and 52d Congresses, and on his retirement two years ago was appointed Second Comptroller of the Currency, and became Assistant Comptroller after the Dockery reorganization. Col. Mansur was a man of high character in public and private life.

This is a fine object lesson for the Amer ican people. The President writing letters and members of the Cabinet deserting their posts of duty at Washington to stump a distant State in aid of the Wall street propaganda. Perhaps the Democratic voters of Illinois will accept District of Columbia bossism. And perhaps they won't.

With 1,500 live cattle and 9,000 quarters of dressed beef shipped last week from the United States to England, where prices for beef have actually decreased the existence of a combine seems to be clearly proven. When the Englishman can get American beef cheaper than the American, what does all our devotion to the stars and stripes amount to?

Venezuela is inclined to keep her bolivars at home rather than pay them to either Great Britain or the United States. She would evidently like some sort of a Monroe doctrine which would protect her from any sort of damage claims.

VIGNETTES OF CITY LIFE.

A Bath Room Episode.

The big, fat man was tired and dirty. He had traveled far. He touched the electric buttor is his room, and, when the bell-boy came, ordered a bath. As there was no bath in his room, he was obliged to use ong in the general bath-room on his floor.

The porter prepared it for him, and he, incased in a bath-robe, piug hat and slippers, ventured into the end of the hall where the bath-room was. Stepping inside, he slipped off his slippers and the robe. The hat he forgot. Then he stepped out of his compartment for a minute. The door clicked behind him. He tried the knob. He was locked out, and clad only in a plug hat. What could he do? He did not want to yell, for fear of being discovered sans garments by all of the guests on the floor. He would climb over the door. He tried it, but his feet were wet and his weight was too heavy. He must be patient. Soon he heard the frou-frou of a woman's skirts. He peered out into the hall from behind the door of the bath-room. He saw a chambermaid.

"Come here," he whispered.

that he was doomed to spend the day in his uncomfortable predicament.

By and by he heard the elick-click of water in a pitcher. It must be a bell-boy. He looked out again. It was. He was saved. The porter came—he took his bath—and, when he grew good-natured, he told about it. But he is not at the hotel now,

He Got the Trousers.

It is a very unusual thing for a negro to be found publicly asking for alms, as they seem to consider that as beneath their dig-nity and suited only to the shiftless, no-account "poh white trash." It is amusing, however, to note the fetching way in which some of the old-timers—the ex-slaves—have of wheedling cast-off clothing out of their friends—and who is not a friend to a good-natured old darky?

Col. Tom Maxwell, the woodenware man, had a pair of fairly good trousers hanging behind the door of his office for some time, and which he intended to have pressed. An old colored man who was cleaning up gazed longingly at them, and, with a quiszical look, said:

"Massa Tom, when kin Ah take dat ole raggid paih ob pants ob mine hangin' behin' de doah? Deyse gittin mighty dusty, boss, an' de nalis ah tarin' um, an' Ah needs um bad."

It is needless to say that he got the trousers.

In the center of town there are stands kept by shrewd dealers in spectacles and articles of that kind. About the only time that the dealer does a profitable business is when a raw countryman comes along who wears spectacles. He halts the new-comer with a loud announcement, talks learnedly about ocular perils, and offers to test the granger's eyes and give him glasses accordingly. He then places the rustic visitor's glasses across his own eyes, but, in doing so, rubs the insides with wax concealed in his ears. He asks the customer to read some fine print. Reading is impossible, and the farmer becomes alarmed. Then the dealer says "Try mine." He fixes on a pair of similar strength, and the stranger sees and reads so well that he is delighted. "How much is them specs wuth, mister?"

"How much is them specs with, mister" he asks.
"Well, I'll tell you," answers the sly merchant, in cautious and sonfidential tones, "I have only a few of them left, and they cost me 38 a pair straight. You can have these for $9, but don't tell anybody."
The countryman gladly hands over $9 for an article that cost 20 cents.

Issue Joined With the Lobby. From the Boonville (Mo.) Democrat.
Gov. Stone's proclamation calling an extra session of the Legislature on the 23d inst., and at the same time administering a caustic roast to the lobby, rings through the State like a fire bell.

The people indorse it and clap their hands.

The conviction is universal that in a sense never before known in the legislative history of Missouri, the last General Assembly was dominated on a variety of important subjects by a thoroughly organized and salaried lobby.

If the lobby decreed the fate of a bill, its fate was sealed in one House or the other-ordinarily in the Hall of Representatives, although that was the larger but much the weaker body of the two.

If the lobby determined a measure should pass, ten to one it would be adopted.

Therefore, the pregnant question is, which shall rule? Who shall govern the State, the people whose State it is, and who pay its taxes, fight its battles and do its voting, or the chosen and salaried lobbyists of a few corporations who would prostitute the functions of legislation to their own interests regardless of the interests of tute the functions of legislation to their own interests regardless of the interests of the people?

The issue is distinctly joined, and the people, regardless of party, for it is not a party issue—are prepared for the trial. Very narrowly, therefore, will they watch their Representatives in the extra session; and woe betide the recreant legislator who forgets his constituents and bends to the lobby "the pregnant hinges of the knee that thrift may follow fawning."

SPRING STYLES FOR CHILDREN.

Gown for Tot. A charming gown for a tiny tot seen at a Fifth avenue modist's was made of swivel silk in delicate lavender. The very short skirt, fashioned after the style worn by the Farisian children, was exceedingly full. The waist was blouse in effect, being shirred into a round yoke. Several rows of narrow ecru Valenciennes lace, forming tiny ruffles, decorated the yoke. The sleeves were tight-fitting to the elbow, where a great puff fell in soft folds. Ruffles of lace were put about the cuff and the picturesque little gown received its finishing touch in the broad such of lavender, which girdled the waist and was tied in a butterfly bow, the ends not reaching to the hem of the skirt.

Hats for Little Ones. Hats for little ones are seen in a variety of shapes. Leghorn flats and broad-brimmed chips with high crowns are equally popular. Flowers are used profusely in trimming them, combined with narrow satin ribbon in fetching little bows. For instance, an olive green chip was trimmed in bunches of pink bride roses, and each thry bouquet with its wealth of foliage was tied with pink ribbon, corresponding in color with the roses.

A Unique Design.

A white muslin dress of unique design for a girl of 6 was exceedingly pretty. In the skirt three bands of sheer embroidery were inserted at intervals of an inch, and the full waist was composed of alternate bands of insertion and muslin. The fullness was confined to the neck band. Bishop sleeves, which were made of strips corresponding with the waist arrangement, were very large, and give the chic air so desirable in garments for children.

A Pretty Outing Suit.

A very pretty outing suit, which will answer for dress occasions in the early spring, and as a utility frock when summer excursions are on the tspis, is made of the inevitable blue serge. The skirt is round and plain and the reefer coat has full sleeves and large revers, which form a rolling collar.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

Seed and Tools for the Poor. To the Editor or the Post-Dispatch.

When on knees bent and with eyes uplifted the good people of this town pray to "Our Father which art in heaven," when they beseech for "thy kingdom come, thy will be done on earth as it is in heaven." let them not forget that there is a movement on foot intending to give the least of their brethren a chance to apply their faculties to that which alone sustains life and which the All Father has freely given for the equal use of all.

With a benevolence rarely found, some of God's children have consented to give their unfortunate and helpless brethren a chance to help themselves by permitting them to dig, to sow, to plant and to reap.

Now, those who are so inclined can greatly assist the poor and apply their prayers to the Editor or the Post-Dispatch.

Now, those who are so inclined can greatly assist the poor and apply their prayers in a practical manner by furnishing the means wherewith to obtain the tools and seeds necessary to bring about a union of labor and natural opportunities, and thus accomplish what has been a great success in Detroit. It is written that we should both work and pray, and we cannot show our reverence of and subjugation to the Almighty better than by offering good deeds instead of idle words to the All Good.

St. Louis, April 12. UNCLE TOM.

Whom the Gods Would Destroy.

Whom the Gods Would Destroy.

To the Editor of The Pest-Disnatch.

You say in Thursday's issue that the wise plutocrat should walcome the income tax as an easy method of escaping worse evils, and it is the truth. People are beginning to see that their public servants are under the thumb of the multi-millionaire. No matter how crying the public need may be, no law can be passed that has not had the trust or corporation sanction.

Any legislation that promises relief to the country at large is at once emasculated or murdered.

The laws we now have only serve as pegs to hang financial jokes on. The financier presses the button, the court does the rest. With our lobby-ridden State and National Legislatures, with our Supreme Court handing down the yellowest kind of decisions, contempt of law is becoming epidemic and it is not the fault of the people, either.

Constitutional? Every one should read the "constitution" Just now. Here is a bit of the constitution: "I do solemnly swear that I will faithfully execute the office of the President of the United States." One part of the duties of the office is thus described: "He shall take care that the laws be faithfully executed." As there is a law prohibiting trusts and as the trusts still live, it is evident that law itself has been "executed."

Yes, it is good policy to throw us a sop

Yes, it is good policy to throw us a sop occasionally. At present we will take a Western President, some silver 16 to 1 and just a little more of the "constitution."

Is Senator Palmer Afraid?

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

It would be amusing, if it was not disgusting, to note the excuses of the goldbug wing of the Democratic party to prevent the expressed will of the rank and file of the party on this financial question, Take, for instance, Jno. M. Palmer of Illinots, who has boasted of the sovereignty of the people in every hamlet in the State, who perhaps did more than any other man to educate the people on the question of the election of United States Senators directly by the people, but who now assumes to be afraid of an expression of the services.

TROLL CONCLUDES TO INVESTIGATE.

But It Will Not Go Beyond Deputy Vogt, He Says.

THINKS THE REST ARE HONEST

Surprise Manifested That the Court's Higher Officials Should Be Apathetic in Such a Case.

day. Sheriff Edward Vogt began day. Sheriff Troil's order reag Vogt from his duties was sed to a formal order of suspen. The order of suspension resulted from onference at 2 o'clock Monday, between a P. R. Fliteraft of Circuit Court dge P. R. Flitcraft, of Circuit Court Room No. 2, and the Sheriff. Vogt, when notified, immediately left the Court-house. His duties in Court Room No. 2 are still being performed by Deputy Sheriff Becker, and the practice of which Vogt has been guilty has been discontinued, at least temporarily.

Early Tuesday morning Sheriff Troll sent word to J. V. & Barret and John S. Tillay that he desired them to appear at his office before 2 o'clock.

"I shall then determine what further course is best to pursue toward Vogt," said the Sheriff to the Post-Dispatch reporter. "Vogt says he only received 31 aplece from them to buy drinks with. I want to be fair in this matter, but if the charge is proved, Judge Filteraft says, Vogt can't serve any longer as a court deputy."

"Will you extend the investigation any further than to inquire into Vogt's conduct?"

"No, I don't think there is any necessity.

"No, I don't think there is any necessity. I am positive none of the other deputies have been doing anything wrong."
"Whence do you have your assurance?"
"Well, I knew when I took hold here that such practices were common. I warned all my deputies that it would not be tolerated."
"Your warning did not have much effect upon Vogt."
"No, but he is a good officer, always performed his duties in the most excellent manner."

formed his duties in the most excellent manner."

Judge Flitcraft has washed his hands of the entire affair, leaving it for Sheriff Troll.

The general apathy at the Court-house in regard to the entire matter is creating comment. A prominent citizen of St. Louis, unwilling, for obvious reasons, to permit the use of his name, but who is a well known business man and of the highest standing, expressed the utmost surprise, in conversation with a Post-Dispatch reporter, at the lack of interest on the part of the higher court officials in the exposure made by the Post-Dispatch.

lack of interest on the part of the higher court officials in the exposure made by the Post-Dispatch.

"It must astound the business men of St. Louis," said he, "that such a condition of affairs could have existed at all, and much more now that the matter has been exposed, that steps have not been more promptly taken to eradicate corruption. I am especially surprised that Judge Flitcraft has not at once started rough-shod to stamp out and punish the shameful maifeasance. I am also surprised that Sheriff Troll has not been more emphatic in his denunciation of the practice, and more prompt to bring this fellow Vogt to justice. I understand the law to read that any one guilty of such conduct is liable to imprisonment and heavy fine. I cannot understand why it should be necessary to investigate Vogt before criminal proceedings have been instituted. It is usually customary to prove criminal charges in the Criminal Courts. The charges have been presented in such shape as to admit of no evasion, and it must be some one's duty to see that Vogt is punished."

shape as to admit of no evasion, and it must be some one's duty to see that Vogt is punished."

W. E. Anderson, manager for St. Louis and Eastern Missouri of the Life Insurance Clearing Co. is another of the members of last week's panel who was approached by Vogt with the same pernicious offer. Mr. Anderson has given his statement to the Post-Dispatch unasked. He is willing to go before Sheriff Troll and the Grandjury to give his testimony. If Sheriff Troll doubts the words of Messrs. Barret and Tillay merely because they impeach the honesty of a political worker appointed by him, let him call on Mr. Anderson. There will be plenty of evidence forthcoming if the big Sheriff will simply helf try to get it. From the way he began his investigation it looked more as though he were trying to avoid than to seek the truth.

In Mr. Anderson's own language his knowledge of Deputy Sheriff Vogt's practices is as follows:

"I was summoned to appear in court room No. 2-a week ago Monday to serve as a juror. I went there in the morning, and as I had wery important engagement for that the sets.

In the afternoon and stay live minutes. Then you'n turn your juror's fees over to me.

"I asked him how much the fees would amount to. He told me 39 if I was in attendance the six days. I refused to agree to such a proposition. Then he said that if I didn't I'd have to be there all day from 10 until 12 o'clock and from 2 o'clock until 5 or 6 in the evening.

"Are we compelled to remain that way if we're not trying a case? I inquired. He assured me that such was the case. So I was there every day except Good Friday. One afternoon shortly after 2 o'clock Judge Filtcraft told the Deputy that he could dismiss such jurors as were not needed in any of the other rooms. He went out and when he came back let a few of the idle jurors go. After I had grown tired of waiting I went up to where he stood in the bailiff's box.

"Look here, I thought the Judge told you to dismiss the jurors who were not needed in the other rooms? said I.

"You may go now," he replied very blandly.
"I thought his proposition was a very pe-

"You may go now," he replied very blandly.
"I thought his proposition was a very peculiar one, and when I spoke with Mr. Proskauer and Mr. Cartwright about it in the court-room I found that they had had similar experience. I intended taking the matter to the Post-Dispatch, but I thought perhaps this deputy had a right to do what he proposed to do. I am told that in a similar instance once before a gentleman was compelled to put up all his juror's fees and a 52-bill besides to the deputy in order to get out of jury duty."

Mr. Anderson is a business man of high standing. Perhaps Sheriff Troll would like to hear from him personally.

When Francis Matouchek, the well-known cooper and politician at 1603 South Twelfth street, was summoned for jury duty with Mr. Barret, Mr. Tillay and Mr. Anderson he decided that he would serve without protest.

o'clock every morning and stay five or ten minutes.

"I am not that kind of a man,' I replied.
"Then I waited until court adjourned, and asked my friend, Judge Wm. C. Jones, if he wouldn't see if he could not get me excused. He, accordingly, went to Judge Flitcraft, and the latter saw that he would not need me, and so I was excused. I am sorry I spoke so soon to the deputy sheriff. I should have waited to see what he had to say. I collected for only two days."

"When Mr. Henry Bittner, of 1408 Market street, another of the gentlemen who were summoned in court room No. 2, and who collected fees, was seen by a Post-Dispatch reporter, he started to tell his experience, but suddenly stoppped.

"I guess I won't say anything. I don't want to get mixed up in this matter at all. I'm a little afraid of it." he explained.

Mr. Adolph Proskauer, General Agent of the Manhattan Life Insurance Company, had a peculiarly aggravating experience with Deptuy Sheriff Vogt, He was actually fined $2 by Judge Flitcraft for resenting what seemed to be an effort of the moneymaking court officer to punish him for not paying tribute. A friend interfered, and the fine was remitted.

Mr. Proskauer's story is as follows:

"I reported for jury duty in Court-room No. 2 Monday, April & Tuesday morning, while I was sitting near the register, Vogt came over to regulate the team. While he was doing that he said to me: I suppose you do not want to serve. I can get you off if you want.

"I said 'no,' and in the afternoon he came to me again and made a similar remark. I declined to accept his offer, and a prominent citizen asked me what Vogt said. I told him and he was surprised at the man's boldness.

"Wednesday Vogt came to me and said: "Aren't you tired coming here every day?"

"I said I was not, and he reminded me that he could get me off whenever I wanted o'clock every morning and stay five or ter

"Aren't you tired coming here every day?"
"I said I was not, and he reminded me that he could get me off whenever I wanted to go. Wednesday afternoon Vogt approached me and asked me my name. I thought and think yet he wanted to send me upstairs to some other court for jury duty because I did not take, his several hints; so I told him my name was on the list and when he called it I would answer. He said the list did not help him identify the jurors, but I again referred him to the record for my name.

but I again referred him to the record for my name.

"You refuse to give me your name then?" he asked.

"I do, said I.

"He went to the Judge and had a short talk with him, and then I heard the order from the bench:

"Bring him up here!"

"Yogt led me to the bar and Judge Flitcraft said:

"You refused to give your name to the Sheriff, did you?"

"I said 'yes,' and the Judge declared:

"Well, that little refusal will cost you a $2-bill."

"I was summoned to appear in coult room No. 2 a week ago Monday to serve as a juror. I went there in the morning, and as I had a very important engagement for that afternoon, after court opened I asked the Judge if I might not be excused. He told me that I could go for the week if I would come back a couple of weeks later, but I told him if I had to serve at all I would rather serve that week if I could get off Monday afternoon. So he said all right that I could get off that afternoon.

"During my conversation with Judge Filteraft Vogt was standing near by and heard it all. As I turhed to go away he stepped up to me and told me to report to him in the merning and he would see what he could do for me. The Judge must have heard what he said, as we were not three feet distant from him, although of course he could not have told from the words what Vogt meant, nor could I.

"Tuesday I came to court rather early and went up to the Deputy Sheriff.

"Well, here I am, I said. You told me to report to you, you know."

"Well, here I am, I said. You told me to report to you, you know."

"Well, very Jonas stepped up to the Judge and whispered to him, and his honor remitted the fine with a warning not to let it happen again. I had taken out my pocket-book to pay under protest, for I was anxious for a chance to expose Vogt. After that almost a dozen of us were sent up to Judge Filteraft's Court, and we returned to Judge Filteraft's Court Thursday morning at il o'clock."

"Did you understand Vogt's hints about getting you of to imply simply a division of the fees?"

"Old you understand Vogt's hints about getting you of to imply simply a division of the fees?"

Filteraft's Court Thursday morning at 11 o'clock."

"Did you understand Vogt's hints about getting you off to imply simply a division of the fees?"

"Oh, I understood what he meant."

"Did you ever get excused from jury servive by surrendering the amount of your voucher to the Deputy Sherif?"

"There is a certain honor among thieves," and when a man is very busy in his office he may do certain things to get excused from jury service, but of that he does not care to speak." The reporter had heard that Mr. Pros-kauer had an experience similar to Mr. Barret's sometime ago, but he politely de-clined to answer direct questions. He said he regarded rottenness and crookedness in city courts as things that could not be erad-icated.

WHAT SENATOR CALL SAYS. The United States Should Recognize

Cuba's Independence. WASHINGTON, April 16,-Senator Call of Florida says this country should not only recognize the independence of Cuba but should guarantee the bonds of an in-dependent government. He has given Sec-retary Gresham his views on this point, but had not received any assurance from the Secretary that such a course would be pursued.

HAVANA, April- 16.-It transpires that Gen. Maceo played the Spaniards a trick, and was not captured at the fight at Palmarito. He had disguised himself, and Guerra, who seemed to be in command, was the one taken prisoner. The Government forces are now in hot pursuit of Maceo.

Maceo.

It is said that Marti and Maximo Gomez have been in Cuba eight days. They landed on the northern coast in the Bay of Nipe, province of Holquin. It has been purposely kept quiet to be announced simultaneously with the arrival of Gen. Campos, who landed at Guantanamo Saturday. It is thought that if Maceo's forces can join those of Gomez there will be another battle.

STORY FROM THE HOSPITALS.

Inhuman Treatment of a Young Woman in Public Institutions.

STARVATION AND INSULTS.

Miss Emma Stewart's Bitter Experience as a Patient at the City and Female Hospitals.

On a comfortable bed in the modest little home of Mrs. Brotherton, 921 South Jefferson avenue, lies Miss Emma J. Stewart, the young Nashville girl, whose terrible experience in this city, where she hunted vainly for work, and came to be almost destitute, was told in last week's Post-

She was seen by a Post-Dispatch reporter this morning, and her emaciated frame, dark-ringed, lusterless eyes and wasting lines of neck and hands show her to be a

When she was at last taken upstairs she was assigned to ward No. 7, a place filled with twenty-four beds and crowded with women.

Her experience in that ward, Miss Stewart says, was terrible. One woman was dying, while the others noised about, and the poor girl, accustomed to more refined surroundings, could stand the strain no longer, and went from the room into ward 9.

When the night nurse, a Miss Turpin, found her in that ward, she rudely compelled her to go back into the other room, from which she had made her escape. One of the doctors came to see her the next day. He did not examine her; in fact, treated her with the utmost indifference, and when she ventured to tell him that she believed she had heart trouble, he made some disparaging remark about her having left her feller" in the South. The doctor, Miss Stewart says, was only a student, and had been there just two days.

Unable to eat the food served and not being given the milk, which the doctor said she might have, Miss Stewart wrote to her friend, Miss Carlin, at Mrs. Seymour's, telling her of her pitiful condition, and asking that something to eat would be sent her. Her complaint had reached the newspapers by that time, and the following day she was accosted by Dr. Kerley in the roughest sort of way.

"So you are the one who is giving us this trouble," eried the doctor, as he came straight through the ward and up to her bed. "What did you do that for?"

"I have never been treated worse in my life," said Miss Stewart.

This complaint the doctor met with the remark that "if she were not as sick as she was he would take her by the heels and throw her out on her head."

"There is very little spirit of brotherly love shown in that place," continued Miss Stewart.

The coffee is rank slop, and is served without any sugar, and the employes who are paid by the city to take care of the sick do very little work, but order the patients around and make them do Yesterday Miss Stewart's friends went out to the hospital to bring her in. Again she was sent for in the rudest sort of way, and when her clothing was brought Dr. Kerley told her to 'get on her rugs' as fast as she could, adding that she would not be able to walk to the car. could, adding that she would not be able to walk to the car.

"I won't have to walk to the car, my friends have a carriage for me," replied Miss Stewart.
"There is no carriage," replied the unfeeling doctor, although that vehicle stood at the entrance then.
Once she asked the doctor down stairs for writing material, and was snarled at by that worthy for it.
"You haven't any friends," said the doctor, when she explained that she wanted to write to her friends, "nobody here has any friends."
Mrs. Carlin, who went out to visit the sick girl and to bring her something to eat, was also treated to some of the discourtesy and roughness which seems rampant at the Female Hospital. She was not allowed to see her at all, but told to communicate with her in writing, and when the note was carried to Miss Stewart, a nurse stood over her watching what she wrote.

While Mrs. Carlin sat waiting for a reply, an old man came in with a bottle of wine and some fruit for his sick sister. The fruit was sent upstairs, but the wine Mrs. Carlin says she heard the doctor say should be taken into the "apothecary."

Miss Stewart is a refined young girl, with traces of beauty in her suffering face. Her heart is evidently affected, for she speaks in gasps, and the terrible pallor of her face would indicate that deprivation and hard work had about made a wreck of her forever.

OFFICER POWELL DEAD. The Veteran of the Police Force Dies Very Suddenly.

The sudden death of Officer William J. Powell, the veteran inspector of police uniforms, was a painful surprise to his col-leagues in the Police Department. Officer Powell was the oldest member of the force this morning, and her emacated trame, dark-ringed, lusterless eyes and wasting lines of neck and hands show her to be a very sick woman.

When Miss Stewart fell ill in Mrs. Seymour's dressmaking establishment, it was thought best that she should go to the hospital for treatment, rest and nourishment. She went to the City Hospital last Sunday a week ago. She was received by one of the nurses, a Miss Frazer, who treated her very roughly Miss Stewart says.

JAPAN'S TERMS ACCEPTED.

Mrs. John W. Foster Receives a Cablegram From Her Husband Confirming the News.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 16.—Mrs. John W. Foster, wife of the ex-Secretary of State, to-day received a dispatch from her husband, who is confidential advisor to the Chinese Peace Envoy, confirming the report that articles of peace had been signed between China and Japan. The cables ram said that the peace agreement was signed yesterday and that Mr. Foster would he home on June 1.

SHANGHAI, April 18.—Li Hung Chang's son-in-law telegraphs that a peace agreement was signed at Shimoneski Monday by the plenipotentiaries of China and Japan. Following are the terms of the agreement:

1. The Independence of Corea.

2. That Japan retains the places she has conquered.

2. That Japan shall also retain the terriconquered.
3. That Japan shall also retain the territory east of the Liao River.
4. That the Island of Formosa be ceded permanently to Japan.
5. The payment of an indemnity.
6. An offensive and defensive alliance.
The exact amount of the indemnity is not known here, but it is said to be equal to $100,000,000 in gold.

Everything in Readiness for the American Railway Association Meeting.

Can Railway Association Meeting.

The meeting of the American Railway Association at the Planters' Wednesday, will be largely attended. A number of additional railroad officials from all parts of the United States, arrived in their special cars Tuesday, and still others are expected Tuesday night and Wednesday morning.

The Committee an International Railway Congress met in Parlor C at 11 o'clock Tuesday, and outlined a report as to the manner in which the American Association shall be represented at the meeting of the International Railway Congress in London on June 25.

shall be represented at the meeting of the International Railway Congress in London on June 26.

This will be the first time the American Association has ever been represented. England, Russia, Germany, Italy, India and Australia each have a railroad association. In all twenty-six nations will send representatives to the Congress.

The Congress is maintained for the purpose of interchanging ideas relative to railroad business, and to give all the benefits of the experience of their contemporaries. Papers are read by the most eminent men in the various national associations and translated into several languages for distribution. The report of the commit-

Chinese concession of territory to Japan embraces a big slice of Manchuria. The Licau (or Liao) Ho empties into the Gulf of Liau Tong, an arm of the Yellow Sea, below Newchang, and its general course is fully 200 miles west of the Corean border. In the ceded territory lies the ancient Manchu capital, Moukden, the important cities of Newchang, Fung-wang, Sin-yan, Fuchow, and the naval fortress of Port Arthur, which in Japan's hands will become the Gibraltar of the Yellow Sea.

TOKIO, April 16.—The newspapers here announce that at the conference between the Peace Commissioners yesterday, Viceroy Li Hung-Chang submitted China's reply to the propositions of Japan, whereupon an agreement on the subject was reached. The conference of the Peace Commissioners will not meet again until the ratification of the treaty of peace.

HOLDING UP

Local Dealers Pay Heavy Tribute to Bridge and Railroad Pools.

TWO FAVORED CORPORATIONS

Consolidated and Madison Coal Cos. Favored by a Bridge Pool Underbidding all Competitors.

The bridge pool has been playing favorites.

The Consolidated Coal Co., owned and operated by officials of the St. Louis Bridge Co., and the Madison Coal Co., operated by members of the Merchauts' Terminal Clique, are the recipients of favors at the hands of the bridge pool.

The exposure of a schedule of cut rates on tonnage shipping in favor of the Consolidated Coal Co., published in Sunday's Post-Dispatch, was an eye-opener for local coal dealers. It was proof positive of what they had long suspected. Instances where they had long suspected. Instances where they had bid on large contracts, ruinously below cost, and yet found themselves underthey had been cost, and yet found themselves underthey had been cost, and yet found themselves underthey had been asked on the discrimination. It will hardly be done, however. Unless a lower rate than the usual 30 cents per ton had been asked for and refused, the merchants would have no grounds for a suit on discrimination.

The matter will be brought to the attention of the Interstate Colamerce Commission, which meets here on Thursday. And while the commission is sitting here there are a great many coal men who want an other phase of freight discrimination looked into.

cont the cars. Then the established freight rate to East St. Louis for anywhere within the distance is 45 cents at on. Yet coal can be bought in East St. Louis to-day from 85 cents to $1 a ton.

How can it be done? The miners' wages are stationary, the cost of hauling is uniform. The freight agents claim their tariff is agreed upon among themselves and is not subject to rebate.

Their statement might hold water were it not for the way their agents are out hustling for business. The fact in itself is significant that the uniform rate is more honored in the breach than in the observance.

Those on the inside know that the agreement to keep up rates is getting irksome. With the Post-Dispatch producing documentary proof of combinations to hold up $t. Louis merchants and throttle the city's commerce, the season is a bad one for pooling. It is a fact that as a result of the commercial upheaval caused by the recent Post-Dispatch exposure, the coal-carrying roads are going to throw off the uniform rate mask and begin the opening slashing of rates within the next thirty days.

Wherever coal men gathered Monday the Post-Dispatch exposure was discussed. Incidents of how the favored companies cut

There is more evidence that we expect to secure in St. Louis before we make our report to the Senate, which will be prepared in first-class shape and be accompanied by such an array of facts, figures, dates and sworn testimony as will convince that body as well as the people of the entire country of the existence of a most oppressive and most powerful conspiracy to collect illegal and exorbitant charges for transporting freight and passengers across the river at St. Louis."

Senator Campbell will return to Springfield Wednesday. He is here to-day for the city election.

NEW YORK, April 18.—In spite of the alleged shortage of beef cattle, there were sent to England from this city last week 1,500 live cattle and 9,000 quarters of dressed beef.

Local butchers see in this fact another proof that the high prices in America are due not so much to an actual shortage of beef cattle as to the manipulations of the Chicago combine.

TO STEAL TWO COWS.

Ben Biggs Set Fire to the Barn of Greek Consul Jannopoulo.

The citizens of Webster Groves have recently suffered from burglaries and other crimes and at 1 o'clock Tuesday evening the ing of the barn of Greek Consul D. Janlo. of the Missouri Tent and Awning nopoulo, of the Missouri Tent and Awning Company, brought a climax.

Mr. Jannopoulo was awakened by noises in the rear of his house and from the cupola saw a man on his grounds. He fired a warning shot, an agreed upon signal, but before neighbors came flames issued from his barn. Soon the whole structure was ablaze, even the adjoining woods taking fire.

A careful search of the premises and neighborhood failed to locate the miscreant. A little later Officers Dryer and Welsh arrested a man giving the name of Ben Biggs leading two Jersey cows along Manchester road. Under "sweating" he admitted having stolen the cows and set fire to the barn to conceal his crime.

The losses by the fire, including farming implements, carriages, etc., aggregate $5,00.

Mr. Jannopoulo identified Biggs as a former yrdman, who left him March 7. Biggs is a Texan and came to this city five months ago.

with assault and battery. Mrs. Leppe is the foolish mother who went to the Bates school last Friday and pelted the teacher with Easter eggs because her youngster had reported that Miss Madden boxed his ears. Miss Madden reported the egg affair to Charles Stark, the School Board's attorney, and he escorted her to the Four Courts and had the warrant issued.

"That attack on Miss Madden," said Mr. Stark, "was a most outrageous piece of work, and Mrs. Leppe deserves to be punished. The attack was altogether unjustifiable. Miss Madden did not box her son's ears, and even if she did that would not give Mrs. Leppe any right to box the teacher's ears or assault her in y other way. A teacher is privileged to the preserve the peace and dignity of her class room."

Miss Cora Ryan of 2950 Thomas street, who is also a teacher at the Bates school, has been subpoenad as a witness.

JUDGE MURPHY IS SORE.

That Judge David Murphy still feels keenly the back-set he received when the higher courts overruled his decision in the police entempt case is evident from a few remarks contempt case is evident from a rew remarks he dropped from the bench in the Court of Criminal Correction at the conclusion of the hearing of John Sheehan. Sheehan was charged with the theft of an overcoat, the property of Andrew Freedman, from the home of Mrs. May Trollis, 813 Walnut street. The evidence against him was not sufficiently conclusive, and he was discharged. As he left the prisoner's chair and started out Mrs. Trollis held up her hand and said:

"Your honor, that man has threatened to assault me in case I appeared to testify against him. Now that he is free I am afraid of him."

"Well," slowly replied Judge Murphy, "if he attempts to harm you inside the railing of this court-room, report it to me and I'll punish him. But if he does anything to you outside that railing I am powerless to help you. You must see the police about it, This court has been shorn of its power temporarily."

stove and a lock of brown hair, stained with red ink inside. In the glove was the following note:

"You are on the wrong trail. Got the wrong bird. My handtwork. Find me if you can. (Signed) Harry, the Hacker."

There is no question but that the affair is a practical joke.

A warrant issued last evening charkes Theodore Durant with the murder of Minnie Williams. Organist George Ring of the Emanuel Baptist Church. where Miss Williams and Blanche Lamont were found murdered, stated to Chief of Police Crowley last evening that on April 3, the day Miss Lamont disappeared, he went to the church about 5 p. m. to practice, and found Durant there, overheated, pale, weak and excited. Durant claimed he had been overseled. Durant claimed he had been overseled. Durant claimed he had been overseled. The police that Durant had just murdered for him at a drug store. It is believed by the police that Durant had just murdered the girl when seen by King.

It has been shown that both girls were first murdered, and afterward outraged, and the theory is that their slayer is a fiend who required the sight of blood to arcuse the animal in his mature, it being claimed that medical works mention many cases of this kind.

There is also a theory that Durant, who took great interest in women's complainta, became a crank on the subject, and killed the women to prosecute his investigations and studies.

It is said that Mrs. Ella Forsythe, who has been missing a week, was also a member of Emanuel Church, and fears are now entertained that she has met the fate of the other women.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PEORIA, Illi, April 16.—The advance guard of the whisky people to attend the last annual meeting of the old trust is already here. Receiver McNuita, the New York Reorganization Committee and most of the old directors are on hand busily engaged in discussing the probable outcome of the trust trouble. President Greenhut is not saying much, but he inilmates that there will be some mighty interesting matter in his annual report to the stockholders. The order to sell the plants has materially altered the situation and checked the reorganization plans. A syndicate of Peoria distillers has been organized to bid on the entire outfit, and if they wait to get them they will organize a Peoria and Pekin trust, as spirits can be produced here cheaper than anywhere else, and they figure that they can easily control the market.

WINE AND SPIRIT DEALERS. National Gathering of Their Associa-tion at the St. Nicholas.

The second annual meeting of the Na-tional Wine and Spirit Association began Cuesday at the St. Nicholas. The membe ship is composed of wholesale wine and liquor dealers and some distillers. It was to regulate trade matters and abuses and to discuss topics of general interest to the trade. The present officers are: I. W. Bernheim, Louisville, President; Geo. W. Harris, Cincinnati, First Vice-President; Wm. H. Lee, St. Louis, Second Vice-President; George G. Brown, Louisville, Treasurer, and W. W. Bullitt, Louisville, Secretary.

At Tuesday morning's session President Bernheim read his annual address. Com-mittees were appointed to look after detail matters.

It was decided to make Tuesday after-propria session accustive. It was decided to make Tuesday afternoon's session executive.

A paper read by George G. Brown of Louisville touched on the W. C. T. U. and the prohibitionists, alleging that their persecutions had placed the liquor men under a ban, when liquor was not responsible for nearly as much crime as was charged to it. Records, he said, showed that of 9.800 murders in the United States in 1894, only 756 were attributable to liquor. Of the suicides in 1894 only 231 out of 4,912 were due to liquor. He suggested the establishment of a bureau of public speakers to represent the liquor dealers in competition, as it were,

Several other papers were read and some business transacted of a routine character. At 1 o'clock the meeting adjurned for dinner, reassembling at 2 o'clock in excentive session.

house. For that reason and the additional fact that he is sure Rhodes is not a man that will, if he gets the power, attempt to "shake them down." Hambrick and his friends are favoring his success.

The support he is supposed to be getting from Walsh indicates Coyle's intentions regarding the gambling-house. Grayson is the outsider in the race. If Rhodes wins it is believed the race track will surely open in the near future, but it is not thought he will permit Monte Carlo to resume. Coyle's followers had a raily at the race track last night. Bookmaker Hambrick was over at Madison yesterday, and he told the wire-pullers of all three factions how he stood.

"I always have and always will be against the gambling-house," said he, "but I believe the people of Madison are in favor of the track."

Locomotive Engineer and Firemen Held Up by Highwaymen.

CHICAGO, April 16.-A railroad engine was held up by highwaymen in one of the busiest parts of the Chicago switching system early to-day. The engineer and fireman of a Chicago & Eastern Illinois locomotive were attacked by three men and each robbed were attacked by three men and each robbed of a watch and money.

Owen Bigelow, the engineer, was piloting his engine through the yards at Thirty-fourth street and Stewart avenue when a man jumped on the cab with a revolver. Bigelow and his fireman, Charles Dollis, made no resistance and handed over their property, but Bigelow was shot in the head when he raised an alarm as the robbers were escaping. His wound is not fatal. CYCLONE IN KANSAS.

Death and Destruction Where the Cloud Touched the Earth.

CHEROKEE, Kan., April 16.—About 6 o'clock yesterday evening the citizens of this place were startled by seeing a cyclone pass about a mile and a half west of the city. Descending to the earth was a funnel-shaped cloud, and as it touched an appalling sound could be heard. It first struck on the Clough farm, about two miles northwest of here, where it demolished a farm-house, fatally injuring Frank Gooden and seriously injuring his wife. The two were the only occupants of the house. When discovered by neighbors they were lying among the debris of the wrecked home, which had caught fire, and the two must have soon been consumed in the flames but for the timely arival of assistance.

Moving in a northeastern direction, the cyclone made a mile leap to where it again touched, tearing away the farm of S. M. Watt and totally destroying a large or chard, twisting the trees off at the ground or tearing them up by the roots. The barn and orchard of John Rustling was next struck and treated in a similar manner. On the Byles farm, still farther north, the cyclone struck a large barn, and after demolishing the structure scattered the timbers for half a mile along its dourse. Much damage was done by the storm to fences and farm property, the extent of which cannot be learned at this time. The furniture in the Gooden is in a dying condition, his neck having been dislocated. CHEROKEE, Kan., April 16.-About in the Gooden house was all totaly destand Gooden is in a dying condition neck having been dislocated.

AFFECTS THE COST OF GAS. So New York Companies Figure on

Using Coal. NEW YORK, April 16 .- A Wall Street rcular says: We learn that the advance in the price of

We learn that the advance in the price of oil is raising the cost of manufacture of gas to such an extent that some of the large companies in this city are figuring on the possibility of using coal. The objectionable features to this are principally in the larger number of men which must be employed to handle the coal and the danger thereby of incurring strikes. One of the companies in this city has just closed a contract for oil at 1 cent a gallon above the price it was paying prior to April 1. In the case of the Chicago Gas companies In the case of the Chicago Gas companies we learn that their contracts with the Manhattan Oil Co. runs three years yet, and are at a price more favorable than the present market price for oil. They are based upon a certain reasonableness of price according to the current market quotations. This enables the companies to keep down material and the expenses of manufacture. As it is, the increased cost of oil has already raised the expenses of the gas companies, it is said, at the rate of about $200,000 a year. If the current market price of oil were figured upon it would raise the expenses about $400,000. It is 'I the Chicago Gas companies figure upon the use of about five gallons of oil to the 1,000 cubic feet of gas.

VERDICT REAFFIRMED. Kohn & Co. Again Score Against O. A. Nubell et al.

Nubell et al.

The trial of the suit of Henry Kohn & Co. of Chicago against O. A. Nubell and Mary A. Young in Judge Klein's Court resulted in an affirmance of the Justice's decision for the defendant. The suit was on a note for $500. Henry Kohn in his deposition alleged that he sold Nubell several small bills of goods on the representation that a Mr. Ulrich, Nubell's partner, was rich and was backing him in his business in St. Louis. Finally Kohn shipped Nubell a bill of $403.91 worth of goods, and a few days later Nubell went to Chicago. Then he said the goods were not what he wanted and promised to send them to Chicago immediately. He also selected another assortment worth $500. Kohn alleged that Nubell falled to send back the first consignment after he got the second.

When in Chicago, Nubell told Kohn that Mary A. Young, a widow, was in love with him and would advance him money as soon as the mariage took place. But no remittice eams and Kohn came to St. Louis. He alleges that he went to Mrs. Young's house, but she said Nubell was out of the city. Later, Kohn alleges, he learned that Nubell was hiding in a closet. Kohn placed the case in the hands of Joseph H. Lobel, a detective, who got Nubell to East St. Louis and had him sign the $500 note.

to complete the draft. While the members of the committee are reluctant to discuss the details of the measure, because of their desire to first submit the perfected bill to prominent and unblased members of the two leading parties, it is stated, upon excellent authority that provision is made for three election commissioners, of whom the Recorder of Voters shall be appointed by the Governor; the third commissioner to be named by the Hayor.

Whether the partisan Republicans will accept the bill in this shape is now the principal question. The other provisions of the bill—open registration, prolonged revision and reduced number of voters to each precinct—are expected to be indorsed by Republicans and Democrats aitke. If the measure meets with the informal approval of the legislative censors it will be published, at length; otherwise an effort to amend it so as to harmonize the views of the leaders will be made.

Special to The Post-Dispatch.

EVANSVILLE, Ind., April 16.-Louis Lemp, the son of the wealthy St. Louis brewer, John Pohlman, a cock fighter, Geo. Ost and James B. Brunts, two assistants. Ost and James B. Brunts, two assistants, came over here yesterday from St. Louis to win a few dollars from local sports at a cocking main. St. Louis lost four birds, and then declined to continue the match. They also lost several hundred dollars, young Lemp furnishing most of the money. As they were about to leave for home early this morning they were all four arrested and with their paraphernalia taken to the station house. This morning they pleaded guilty to cock fighting and were fined $20 each in Police court.

ACTING ON BIDS. Board of Public Improvements Con siders Some Routine Matters.

The Board of Public Improvements, in regular session Tuesday morning, on metion of the Committee on Streets and Railroads, reconsidered the bids under lettings 4473, 4482, 4484 and 4485, and all were rejected. These bids were for grading and paving five alleys. They were rejected because they were in excess of the appropriation named in the ordinances. This action was in accord with an opinion of the City Counselor, and will be uniformly followed hereafter.

Foreign markets showed little response to yesterday's advance in American markets. Liverpool up 16d and firm and London firm, but quiet, and Berlin about 16c higher, but Paris weak. Then there were large Argentine and Russian shipments, which, added to those from this country, made over 7,000,000 buset aftent for Europe last week. But domestic markets did not break and their failure to do sa alarmed the shorts, who, in an attempt to cover, found little for sale. Then came a scramble to buy and the market went flying unward. Bull sentiment on the advances in other speculative commodities was still strong and further stimulated by cotton being higher again this morning. There was, too, expectation of Bradstreet's reporting a large visible decrease. Receipts were light everywhere—39,700 bu winter wheat at Western markets and 172 cars spring in the Northwest, against 126,000 bu and 365 cars respectively one year ago.

The clearances, however, were smaller, from four ports in four and wheat being equivalent to 202,000 bu. It was the disappointing Bradstreet's that dampened builish ardor and caused the market to decline. It did not lose all the early advance, but the close was heary.

headlong out of the window. Still I kept on screaming, until every member of the household came running to my room.

The next morning I could not speak above a whisper, and it seemed to me that my heart would break. Could it be that I never should hear myself sing again? It was too cruel! My parents sent for a physician, who made me open my mouth while he peered inside, talking of my larynx and epiglottis, until he frightened me quite as much as the burgiar. He said I must have patience; that when my talking voice returned, probably my power to sing would also be restored.

I cried nearly all the time for three days. Then Larry came and asked me to marry him right off. Men seem to think that proposals of marriage must be wonderfully soothing; they may be so at times, but not always. Yet I loved Larry dearly, and his tender words were very satisfactory and sweet to hear. I was humble just then, and

He could be elequent when he chose, and finally I whispered in his ear (I could not do anything but whisper) that I would marry him in a month.

Then all was hurry and confusion in the excited household in preparation for my wedding. My two younger sisters were all eagerness, and so full of merry life and talk that I almost forgot my great affliction, and grew more cheerful. But one day, as I sat sewing in my room, I happened to think of an operatic air I was fond of, and, forgetting my recent misfortune in good ear-

a caucus held at the headquarters

At a caucus held at the headquarters of the Republican City Committee, 518 Washington avenue, Monday night, the newly elected Republican members of the House of Delegates, decided on the organization of the House as follows:

Speaker—Louls C. Diekman.
Clerk—George Martin.
Asssistant Clerk—Charles Gundlach.
Sergeant-at-Arms—Adam Nieberk.
Previous to the caucus it was thought that Tobias Mitchell had a certainty of the Clerk—ship. He was understood to have the indorsement of "de ole man," and the whole thing was considered as settled. Grassmuck was at one time thought to be in the lead for the Speakership, but Mr. Filley espoused the cause of Louis C. Diekman, and the defeat of Grassmuck occasioned no surprise.

and the defeat of Grassmuck occasioned no surprise.

Jake Slupsky wanted to be Sergeant-atArms, but there was never much fight on that position, or that of Assistant Secretary. The interest centered on the Speakership and Secretaryship, and Mr. Filley seems to have "broke even" on the play. Whether the election will go the way of the caucus will be known when the House meets.

The Council will also meet at 3 o'clock this afternooon, and will elect a Secretary, Assistant Secretary and Sergeant-at-Arms. The incumbents will probably be re-elected. There is a possibility, too, that the Mayor will submit his slate as soon as the new Council meets.

NEW YORK, April 16.—The biggest nugget of gold found in North Carolina since the war is in the possession of Mr. George Crawford of 33 Wall street, this city. The nugget came from a mine named after Mr. Crawford, located in Stanley County, about four miles from Albermarie. It weights eight and a half pounds and is of a flattened irregular form. Though much more spread out, its volume is about that of half of an ordinary brick. It is worth, at a rough calculation, not less than $2,000. About 91 per cent is virgin gold.

What the Captain of the Browns Says of the Season.

and the change will probably have the effect desired, which is to have a little less batting and to shorten the rame. Last season almost every game played took up two hours or more.

"Rule 43, section 5, making a fout tip caught by the catcher within the ten foot lines a strike, will also help the pitcher greatly and shorten the game some. Section 2 of rule 19, which regulates the size of a mit or glove used by any player, excepting the catcher or first baseman to not more than ten ounces in weight or fourteen inches in circumference around the palm of the hand will not effect any one. In rule 20 which compels the players of the competing teams to occupy their respective benches. The words, 'while not engaged in active play, were added. If the requirements of this rule were obeyed last season as the rule read we would have had no base ball. This rule should be enforced, for the players of opposing teams interfere with the team work by mixing with the other players and it often leads to arguments and trouble. It is very well known that opposing players are not wanted around their rivais' bench and all ball players should have the good sense to remain on their own bench while not in active play.

"Rule 46, section 1, is made more distinct. In batting out of turn only the proper batsman is called out provided the out is declared before the ball is delivered to the succeeding batsman. No run shall be scored or bases run, and no outs shall be counted other than that of the proper batsman.

"Section 96 this rule, which reads that the betater is out, if he hits a fly ball that can be handled by an infielder while first and second base is occupied or first, second and third with only one out, is a good change. It will allow the infielders will take advantage of this play in this way. With a man on first and not more than one out the he hatsman falls to run on first the infielders will take advantage of this play in this way. With a man on first and not more than one out, and a slow runner at the bat hits up an infielde

Tocal Amateur League.

A local four-club league will be formed within a few weeks and the fans and cranks will have an opportunity to witness first-class amateur baseball while the Browns are away. The league will be composed of the Christian Brothers, the Diels, the Belleville Clerks and the Meyers. It is proposed to play the games on the grounds of the Christian Brothers, the Pastime Athletic Club and at Sportsman's Park.

The arrangment has not yet been perfected, but it is understood that all of the clubs mentioned have signified their intention of entering into the organization.

The St. Louis team was very successful from a financial standpoint during the first six weeks of last season and if Von der Ahe can duplicate the trick this spring he will have no kick coming.

Theodore Breitenstein looks bigger and stronger than he ever did, but a great many of the fans think Buckenberger is giving him too much of it this spring. Plenty of preliminary practice gives a pitcher perfect control of the ball, however.

Von der Ahe is unfortunate in having Chicago here to open the season. There was a time once when Anson's team could outdraw any in the League, but those days are over and a club that cannot beat the Shreveport Greys will strike a snag in the Browns with Breitenstein in the box.

The opening of the season will be celebrated with a hurrah at Louisville. One brewery firm has purchased 1,00 tickets and as many more have been placed in large lots. The advance sale of individual tickets has also been exceedingly large.

Joe Hornung, the old Boston outfielder, has signed with the Atlanta Southern League team. His father died at Utica. N. Y., the other day. After the funeral Joe drew his advance money and started South. Anson's aggregation of misfits were getting a good walloping at Shreveport, La, yesterday, and because things were not going his way, Anson took his team off the field. Track Talk.

Fred Foster has wired "Tiny" Williams offering him the mount on Dr. Rice, in the match race with Simmons, who will be ridden by Clerico.

Dan Honig captured three races at Roby Monday with Charm, Red John and Hartford. Honig's jockey, Garner, is the best boy riding at Roby.

As was announced in Monday's sporting edition of the Post-Dispatch, Simmons has been reinstated by the Turf Congress Committee, appointed to investigate the ownership of the horse.
